Dear Members:

Thank you for helping make this year's first G.O.A. conference a success. We were very happy to see all of you who could make it, and we hope to see those of you, who could not come, at the next conference. We do, however, realize that since this is the first conference, there is still much room for improvement. This is why we need help, time, and input from each and every member. We must all work together, with each of us doing our share, to be sure that this organization and conference continue to succeed, not only for us, but also for our children. Our children must know where they come from, and we hope that our programs and just the fact that they are meeting other children who come from the same place will help them to learn about their roots. We look forward to seeing more of you and your children at the next conference, as these conferences are for the whole family, and not just adults.

In conclusion, we would like to recognize the following members for their extra effort and commitment to make this conference a success: Ravindra Amonker, Vilas Khandeparker, Sheela Laud, and Ravindra Sansgiri a special thank you for the extra time you put into this conference. I also like to thank my family, Arun, Mranali, and Amod, who supported me and helped me throughout the conference. I am thankful to my brother, Dr. Aditya Kamat, for his beautiful front cover picture and sensitive kokani poems. Special thanks to my good friend Mrs. Mina Lawerence for the article on Goa.

Once again, thank you to all who attended this conference, and we hope to see a larger turn out in the future.

Shubhada Sawardekar

GOA

By Mina Lawerence

Goa is located on the west coast of India just south of Bombay. Goa borders the Arabian Sea to the west and the Western Ghats to the east. The state has been compared to many world famous places because of its natural beauty and fascinating history. Travel experts call it "Miami of Asia;" historians consider it the "Rome of the East."

Recent history: In 1498, Vasco DaGama led the Portuguese explorers to the west coast of India and established trade between Europe and India. In 1533, the Portuguese made Goa their capital because of its natural, sheltered harbor. In 1961, Goa, Daman and Diu, the three Portuguese colonies on the west coast of India became part of India. About ten years later, Goa achieved statehood. The capital today is Panaji(Panjim).

Physical features: Since Goa is along the Ghats, it has a hilly terrain. The waterfalls, especially the Dudh Sagar, are breath-taking. Goa is also famous for its many beautiful beaches in Colvale, Calangute, Bagha, and Fort Aguad. The Agasain and Mandovi are the two main rivers which crisscross the state. The main cities are Panaji, Vasco DaGama, and Mapuca. Mormugao is considered one of the finest ports in Asia. Sixty percent of the country's minerals are exported through this port. Goa is also a naval base, and its Dabolim airport serves both commercial and military needs.

Economy: In Portuguese times, the natural resources of Goa remained almost untapped. The only industry was mining. Goa has large deposits of iron ore which is mined even today. Fishing and rice farming are other occupations. Cashew nuts are exported. The most profitable industry is tourism. Visitors from the United States, Europe and the rest of India have been attracted by Goa's white, sandy beaches, warm weather, spicy cuisine, and friendly people. Through private enterprise and government help, Goa has constructed five-star hotels, organized guided tours, and efficient, inexpensive transportation systems. There are direct flights from some cities in Europe to Dabolim Airport. The large train terminus in Margao and extensive bus routes have made Goa easily accessible.

Religion: There are two major religions practiced in Goa. About half the population is Hindu, the other half is Roman Catholic. Both groups live in harmony and celebrate each other's festivals. Portuguese missionaries had magnificent cathedrals built, many of them still in excellent condition. The most famous of them is Bom Jesu. The remains of St. Francis Xavier, a Spanish missionary lie in this church. There are many historic temples in Goa, the most noteworthy being of the Maheshwari Temple, Shantadurga temple & Mangeshi temple.

Language: The state language is Konkani which has several dialects. Many of the older Goans still speak Portuguese. English is the medium of instruction in most schools, though the students are also expected to learn Konkani and Marathi.

Education: Since Independence, Goa has seen the establishment of many schools and colleges. Panaji also has a medical college.

People: Perhaps the most endearing feature of Goa is its people. They are friendly, easy-going and courteous.

Congratulations to 1st Goa Convention. Good Luck for Future Conventions!

THE GOAN CONFERENCE Pittsburg, PA, JULY 3-5 1993

Dear Fellow Goans:

There is great desire from many Goans across America to have a . get together in the summer of 1993. We would like all Goans, in the United States, to celebrate the Goan culture together. The intent of the Goan conference is to meet old friends, make new friends, and make our kids more knowledgeable about our people and our roots. The plan is to have this conference at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in July of 1993, and in different cities in following It will be held on the weekend of July 4 for the convenience of a long weekend. It is important to know how many of you will attend the conference. It is needed so we can arrange hotel accommodations, dining arrangements, and if possible entertainment. To make this event more successful we will need all of you to cooperate and help in this event, anyway you can. The names of volunteers in your area are given below, please feel free to contact anyone of them for your suggestion as soon as possible. Please make the effort to encourage any friend or relative we may not have included in our listings. To make this conference a success we will need your attendance and support. So mark your calendar of 1993 for the weekend of July 4. Every suggestion and help is needed and appreciated.
